

This ruling will further limit our ability to raise funds. We are a non-profit group of churches and individuals operating a homeless shelter and soup kitchen. We have a very limited staff, and extremely tight budget. This ruling would force us to use resources we don't have contact everyone to whom your organization sends faxes, obtain their permission, reconfigure your databases and other records to store the consent information, and constantly sort all your lists of constituents, clients, members, etc., into those who have and have not provided consent. These are resources that otherwise you could use to achieve your tax-exempt purpose in the community. The sluggish economy has already adversely affected our ability to raise funds and this ruling would only make matter worse.
